

My best work

When I was doing the different units from the book, I learned that writing in English has an importance when it is related to a good grammar and spelling. The majority of the time we know how some words are said, but not how they are written, and we struggle with that. I consider that my best written work of the units was Career Paths. It wasn't just only that I had more time to focus on that theme; I'm really interested in my career path and my dream job. It's really passionate when you can tell someone what you want to achieve in life, and showing them that you're willing to do anything on your hands to succeed. Seeing people getting what they want with so much effort makes me want to do better.

Some of the things that I improve on this journey in this class are my grammar skills, vocabulary and speaking, even though that we almost didn't practice at class, the teacher encourages us to practice when you have the opportunity. In the unit 5 I learn what was a taking risks and some different grammar to use in my daily life or when talking from an experience of an adventure. On the way I talked with my cousin to do microadventures (because they are part of taking risk to) more often despite of the situation. We should stop complaining of what we want to do and don't have time for other things you want to do, and start making time, we spend much time complaining in life, that we don't realize life is passing by. We have to start living our life and stop wasting time.
